Subject Area: Nostalgia TV

GUEST:

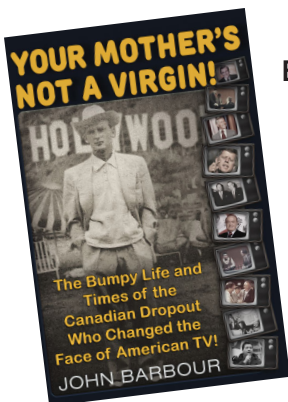

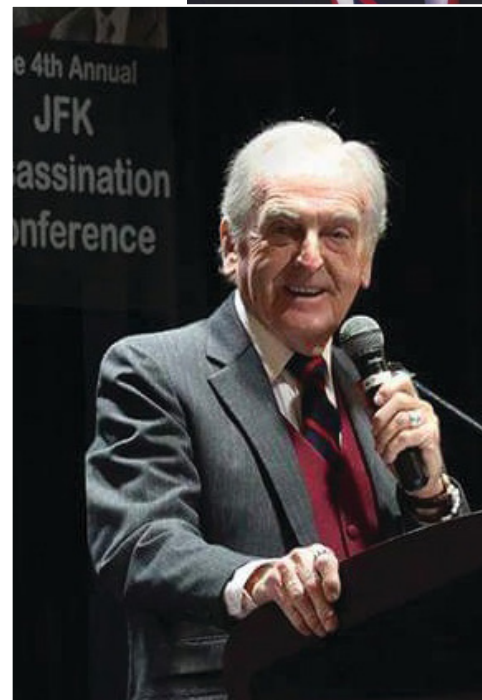

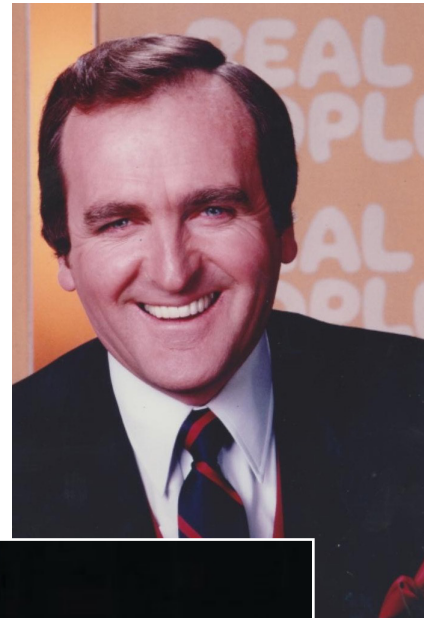

Emmy-award winning Comedian John Barbour, creator and host of the 70s/80s TV hit 'Real People'; Writer for Frank Sinatra; award-winning documentary producer

DISCUSSION:

The 85-year-old comedian, producer, TV host and documentary producer has written his autobiography, a mirthful trip through 1950s Hollywood, the advent of TV and comedy series, and the roller-coaster ride of a successful, controversial career that includes the likes of Frank Sinatra, a despondent Bob Hope, the elusive Jim Garrison, and the men who control America's 'dream machine' and access to it. The story covers this young Canadian runaway's multiple attempts to become a U.S. resident and citizen, his accidental entry into comedic writing and stand-up, and the quest to become America's next Jack Paar that led to his becoming known as the Godfather of Reality TV.

AVAILABILITY:

By phone or Skype upon request; available for in-person interviews in Las Vegas, Los Angeles and NY with notice.
